

Downtown gets spooky

CPI, village, businesses host Halloween fun

Cassidy, Libby and Caitlin Hammecker relax on a bench in front of Scholet's during downtown Cobleskill's Halloween celebration Saturday afternoon. The Hammeckers were among the numerous families who dressed up for the community Halloween.

Halloween went downtown in Cobleskill this year.

Trick-or-treaters and their families ranged up and down Main Street and side streets Saturday afternoon for the first downtown Cobleskill Halloween celebration.

Organized by Cobleskill Partnership Inc. and the Cobleskill Recreation Commission, "Halloween in Cobleskill" featured trick-or-treating at businesses and an afternoon of fun at Teen Town.

Afterwards, a corn maze, hay maze, pumpkin patch and haunted house were available at Carpets and Then Some.

Participating businesses in Saturday's celebration were Catnap Books, The Studio for Art and Craft, Dragonflies and Dreams, All About Frames, The Country Bridal Shoppe, Fairuz, Pizza Shack, Coby's, Scholet Furniture, A Cut Above, Impress and Nicole's Hair Shoppe.

John McLear adjusts the Freddie Krueger mask for his son, Devin, as they rest at Coby's during trick-or-treating.

Alex Alodaini is already for trick-or-treaters outside his restaurant, Fairuz, on North Grand Street.

A line of trick-or-treaters heads out of Catnap Books for more candy stops along Main Street.

Emily Kaiser watches as Owen Nied, dressed as Calvin, decorates candy at The Studio for Art and Craft.

Looking most angelic, Sydney Dymes paints a pumpkin at Teen Town.

Photos by Jim Poole

Little Riley Lape gets a lift from dad, James, after the Teen Town fun.

Joe Sellers sweeps leaves off his steps as he prepares for trick-or-treaters along North Grand.

Brightly-costumed crayons were on hand to greet visitors to Teen Town.

Cobleskill Village Trustee and Recreation Commission member Linda Holmes presents prizes to costume winners at Teen Town.